

BRAND GUIDE · LOGO, COLOR AND USAGE

goultralocal.com

The logo

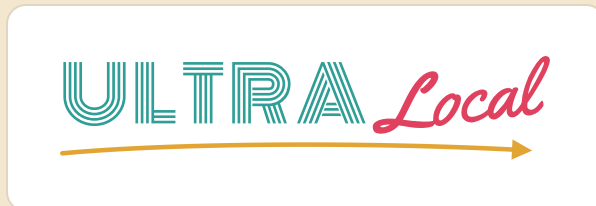

Stacked (primary). Use when there is room: website hero, signs, print ads, shirts, merchandise.

Horizontal. Use in wide, short spaces: website header and navigation, email signatures, letterhead, banners.

The logo is three parts: ULTRA, Local and the arrow. Keep all three together and in these positions. For spaces too small for either lockup, use the icon (page 5).

*CMYK values are a starting conversion, not a press match. Ask your printer for a proof, or have them match to a Pantone swatch, before a large run. Neon Pink and Neon Teal shift the most on uncoated paper.

Icon and favicon

The icon is the script L from Local with the arrow. It is for spaces where the full logo would be too small to read: browser tabs, app icons, social profile pictures and stickers. It does not replace the full logo anywhere the full logo fits.

Space, size and fonts

Clear space. Keep empty space around the logo at least the height of the arrowhead times two on every side. No text, edges or other logos inside it.

Minimum size. Stacked: 1.75 in / 200 px wide. Horizontal: 2.5 in / 280 px wide. Below that the lines in ULTRA fill in. Use the icon instead.

LOGO LETTERING

Monoton (ULTRA) and Yellowtail (Local). Both are free for commercial use. The logo files are already outlined, so nobody needs these fonts to use the logo. Do not retype the logo with them.

SUGGESTED WEBSITE FONTS

Righteous for headings, a retro rounded face that sits well next to the logo.

DM Sans for body text, clean and easy to read.

Both are free on Google Fonts. Keep Monoton and Yellowtail inside the logo only; they are hard to read as body or heading text.

Please don't

Don't stretch or squash

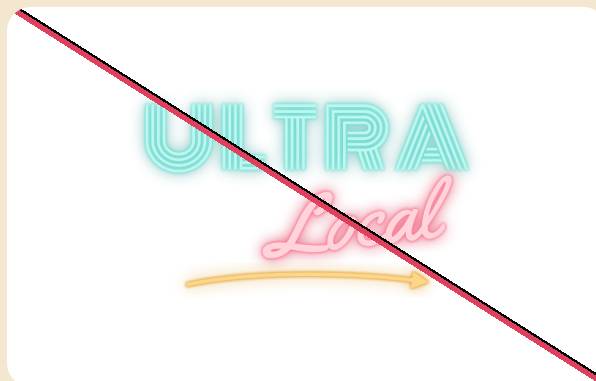

Don't recolor outside the palette

Don't rotate

Don't add effects like drop shadows

Don't print the glow version

Don't place on busy or low-contrast backgrounds
